ABSENTEE VOTING—Bay St. Louis City Clerk Edward Favre, left, explains how to vote absentee to Melvin Dominique Saturday at city hall. Dominique, a supervisor for South Central Bell, said he will be working in New Orleans on Tuesday's city election day. Favre said noon Saturday was the deadline date for anyone wishing to vote absentee in person. Mailed absentee ballots will be accepted until noon Monday. Favre said some 61 people will be voting absentee. "That is the most I think we have ever had for a city election," he added. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Heavy voter turnout eyed for Bay election Tuesday

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A large turnout of voters is expected Tuesday for the Bay St. Louis Primary election.

Voting will begin at 7 a.m. through 6 p.m. at four precincts, with the use of the Votermatic system for recording votes. It is the system used by the county and was used in the presidential elections.

The new system uses computers to tally votes and complete returns should be in record time for the Bay election.

Those voting in Ward One will vote at the Garden Center on Leonhard Avenue; Ward Two, Sy Rosenthal Gym on Seminary Drive; Ward Three, Valena C. Jones Complex, Old Spanish Trail; and Ward Four, Virginia Hall, Christ Episcopal Church.

In Tuesday's primary qualified electors will vote for mayor, councilman-at-large and councilman in their respective districts.

Eddie Favre, city clerk, reports there are more than 3,500 registered voters in Bay St. Louis. This registration is on new voter lists compiled since the last Bay election in 1977.

Persons must be registered both at the City Hall and County Courthouse, according to Favre, and his office members have been purging the books in recent days to verify the qualified electors.

Favre said, "We have found several persons registered in Bay St. Louis, but not in the county. We urge all voters to have their county voter registration cards handy just in case there is a question as to whether they are registered in both places."

"It is possible for them to be registered in the county and we were unable to find their name on the registration books. We know some have transferred their county registration to other counties, states and some have died. A person must be registered at both the Bay City Hall and Hancock County Courthouse in order to vote Tuesday," Favre emphasized.

There will be two vying for the office of mayor on Tuesday. Incumbent Larry Bennett and Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr. The winner is scheduled to vie with Joseph Buccola, Republican, on June 2, in the general election. Buccola is the only Republican seeking election.

In the race for councilman-at-large, incumbent Wilmer E. Seymour faces David Michael Benvenuti in a two-man race.

Incumbent Pete Benvenuti is not seeking re-election for councilman of Ward One. Benvenuti's post is being sought by Ronald J. Artigues and Gary Eugene Taylor.

In the race for councilman, Ward

Two, Clarence M. Ladner and Clyde L. Ladner are challenging incumbent James C. (Jim) Thriffley.

Harry John Farve is challenged by Charles Edward Johnson in Ward Three. Farve is the incumbent and Tuesday's winner will face Independent candidates Herta M. Smith and Thomas P. Clarke in the June 2 General Election.

The only Republican Party member on the Bay council, Fred Wagner, is not seeking re-election in Ward Four.

Young, Crippen visit here

Shuttle astronauts laud NSTL testing program

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Crew members of the first Space Shuttle mission showered compliments on National Space Technology Laboratories engine testing personnel while visiting the "Hancock" County facility Friday morning.

NSTL personnel tested and perfected the Shuttle orbiter's three engines and liquid propellant tank.

Shuttle Astronauts Cmdr. John Young and Pilot Robert Crippen both reported the craft's engines operated flawlessly, and were relatively "smooth" riding and quiet.

Young told a crowd of some 200 people gathered at the main Shuttle engine test stand, "That baby flew like a champ. It is a remarkable vehicle."

The two-day Shuttle test flight was Crippen's first space mission and he reported, "We just sat back and enjoyed the ride. Looking at the Earth at over 120 miles up is something else. Zero gravity is a kick too."

Young and Crippen both repeatedly said the Shuttle craft's performance and the entire mission was "fantastic." The astronauts also spoke to about 100 personnel at the single engine test stand.

After officially opening the NSTL

Visitor Center the astronauts narrated a film and slide presentation of the flight.

Some 500 NSTL employee's jammed the center's auditorium to view the flight film footage and slides primarily shot by the astronauts and just recently released.

In addition to film of the astronauts entering the shuttle craft and a slow motion sequence of lift-off at Cape Canaveral, footage by Crippen showed his view as the craft moved away from

Forester asks school board about communications problem

By BRENT MACEY

Members of the Mississippi Forestry Commission confronted the Hancock County School Board Friday to complain about a lack of communication between the commission and the board.

Rand Riedrick, Hancock County Forester, asked the board why they had refused payment to the commission for controlled burning of 16th section lands about one month ago.

Riedrick told the board he thought Terry Randolph, 16th Section Land manager, had recommended the board not pay for the burning.

Board members Monvel Cuevas and Woodrow Ladner said Randolph never recommended the board not pay for the burning.

They stated payment of the bill was considered shortly after a series of brush fires swept through Hancock County. Ladner informed the commission representatives he thought the area in question had been burned during the brush fires.

He said the board requested Randolph to check into the matter before authorizing the payment.

Riedrick said two of four 16th section lands slated for controlled burning were burned in the fires and that they were canceled from any controlled burning.

He said payment for the other two sections of land were presented to the board.

Also non payment of another bill for remarking 16th section land was questioned by the commission representatives.

Riedrick said timber land had been marked three years ago and part of that timber had been cut and sold.

He stated other areas which were marked and not cut at that time now needed to be remarked.

The county forester said paint had flaked off in places and needed to be repainted so the commission can tell which trees will be legally cut.

Ladner said after the meeting the bill was not paid because it included on the same docket with the bill for controlled

State tax official praises Hancock reappraisal effort

Progress toward reappraisal of Hancock County's 50,000 parcels of land has been highly commended by the State Tax Commission.

Terry H. Ballard, senior appraiser of the Equalization Division of the State Tax Commission, has been in Hancock County reviewing work being accomplished.

Each step of the reappraisal program must meet stringent state specifications and guidelines for measuring, aerial photography, mapping, evaluation and appraisal.

In a letter to Assessor Edward D. Murtagh Jr., Ballard said he was "very pleased with the quality of the work that has been completed," and that in his judgment "it meets or exceeds the State Tax Commission specifications and guidelines."

Although most Mississippi counties are hiring outside contractors to accomplish reappraisal — some at costs running into several million — Murtagh volunteered to perform the task "in house" using county employees.

This will effect a saving of at least $500,000 for the county.

Statewide reappraisal, revaluation and reassessment was dictated by Senate Bill 2672 enacted by the 1980 Legislature.

A move to achieve statewide equalization of assessments by the end of 1983, it provides that tax rolls of any county failing to comply be turned down by the State Tax Commission.

Consequently, any county failing to complete revaluation by the 1983 deadline would be unable to collect taxes until such time as reappraisal was completed.

Hancock County now has finished approximately 75 percent of urban residential field work, 35 percent of urban residential classification, and 35 percent of transfers of field sketches to permanent card files.

Praising the assessor and his staff for their work, Ballard told Murtagh that "accomplishing reappraisal 'in house' is a challenge that very few assessors are willing to accept."

"But you and your staff are showing that it can be accomplished by providing excellent leadership and employing competent personnel," Ballard added.

YOU ACTUALLY EAT THESE?—These lovely young ladies from various parts of the nation, on the coast for the Miss USA pageant, got their first sampling of crawfish during a filming session at the Gulfport harbor Friday afternoon. Although slightly hesitant at first, all six contestants eventually tasted the spicy delicacy and a couple even managed a smile for the many photographers and by-standers. The "mud bug" shot will be included in the May 21st broadcast of the Miss USA pageant from the Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum in Biloxi. Nena Stone-Pennsylvania, left, Christy Garthwaite-New Jersey, Stacy Jane Loach-Oklahoma, Jo Ann Savory-Massachusetts, Karen Elaine Eldson-Michigan, and Joan Abbott-South Dakota all appear to be unsure about the whole affair. ## Biloxi candidates view Hancock wastewater plan

By BRENT MACEY

Two candidates in the upcoming Biloxi City Council election attended a Waveland Wastewater Authority meeting Wednesday night to gather information on how to operate a county managed wastewater facility.

During that meeting a preliminary report on a county run wastewater facility was presented to the authority by Ray Eaton, the authority's engineer. That report was accepted by the board and approved to be sent to the Bureau of Pollution Control in Jackson for review.

Also the board agreed to send copies to the governor and representatives. If the report is accepted by the pollution bureau then the report will be sent to the Environmental Protection Agency in hopes of receiving necessary funds to finance the project.

Cecil Grant, executive director of the Gulf Coast Enlisted Retired Association and also a candidate for Ward Four council seat in Biloxi, told authority members he thought Biloxi would not be joining the Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater Authority.

Andrew A. Pilikos, president of the association and candidate for Ward Seven, said, "We are here to learn from you."

He informed the board that the association had sent letters to all city governments along the coast in an effort to obtain information about the wastewater issue.

"Waveland was the only city which responded to the initial letter," he said.

Waveland Mayor John Tongo said Friday, Waveland responded to the letter by inviting the association to attend the wastewater hearing Wednesday night.

After hearing Eaton's report, Pilikos said the report was a breath of fresh air in comparison to the plan prepared by CH2M Hill for joining the tri-county Regional Wastewater Authority.

Grant stated there is a copy of the Hill report in Biloxi City Hall, but the average citizen relies mostly on what he hears, and that report is difficult to

Waveland to participate in Beach Road repairs

By BRENT MACEY

The Waveland Board of Aldermen Tuesday approved a resolution to participate with the county in working to repair parts of the Beach Road.

Donn Murray, of Broadway and Seals Engineers, informed the board of a $260,000 grant from Coastal Energy Impact Funds approved for work on the beach road project.

He said an additional $9,250 had also been approved for studying the remaining part of the road.

The original application called for beach repair work from the southern Waveland city limits to Waveland Avenue.

Construction work on the South Beach Boulevard was planned from the southern Waveland city limits to Nicholson Avenue.

Murray said the project now has been approved to include work along the entire stretch of road.

The engineering firm representative said top priority will be given to pumping sand into the beach area from offshore.

He explained erosion of sand from under the road has caused the road to collapse in a number of places.

"We will pump as much sand into the road area as we can, and if we cannot find sand then we will start with the burning."

The board approved a $1,332 payment for remarking the some 200 acre site and also approved a $1,049 payment for marking trees in another 235 acre area.

Both 16th Section lands are located north of Lee Town and the Flat Top area close to the buffer zone.

Also during the meeting the board heard presentation of drafting and a home economics classes at Hancock North Central.

Two drafting classes taught by Ronald Burks presented mechanical drawings they had completed this school year.

Pere Cabibi, representing Waveland Senior Citizens, presented a pin to Policeman Barry Richardson for services rendered.

The dinner was arranged by Parley Chairman Lois Kothmann and members Hedi Klein, Dorothy Bielstein, and Marion Kennair with assistance from unit members.

Woodrow Ladner said two of his sons had completed the course and had no trouble finding employment.

Burks thanked the school board for purchasing the equipment needed to make the program possible.

Students in home economics classes taught by Janet Roche gave a presentation of this school year's accomplishments.

road project first," he said.

"If we start with the road project first we will probably start at the Waveland city limits and go as far as we can until money runs out," he said.

If sand is not available, Murray said the curbing and sidewalk area will be torn out and back filled with clay and gravel.

That area will be overlaid, he said.

In places where erosion is heavy, Murray said the curb and sidewalk may be torn out filled with concrete.

He stated his son Ron Murray, formerly of Gulf Regional Planning and currently the Bay St. Louis administrator of the Small Cities Project, is looking for more funds.

"We may be able to turn that $260,000 into $800,000," he said.

Currently the $260,000 CEIP funds will be matched with $52,000 local funding for the project.

That cost will be shared by Waveland and the county.

Members of the American Legion Post 77 in Waveland also addressed the meeting.

They discussed plans to form a committee to work with the Broadway and Seals in repairing the Garfield Ladner Memorial Pier in Waveland at the foot of Coleman avenue.

Jack Doyle, the Post's commander, said the Legion hoped to have the pier completed by this summer so the Legion could sponsor a fishing rodeo for young people.

He said the Legion is willing to contribute money to the repair project.

Murray explained the engineering firm is considering two alternatives in repairing the pier.

He said a large crane with a head-ache ball may be moved out on the existing pier to crush up rip rap into smaller pieces.

That smaller rip rap may be covered by sand and then a cloth type of coating which will be covered by more sand and rip rap and then planted over.

"That should stop erosion with the exception of having another hurricane like Camille," Murray said.

The other alternative did not include using the special cloth covering.

Murray also mentioned the possibility of paving a asphalt strip down the center of the pier with a turn around (cul de sac) at the end.

A possibility of having a gate at the foot of pier to prevent traffic on the pier was also mentioned.

An area provided by the American Legion Post as a parking alternative was also discussed.

Other detailed sheets showed location and dimensions of kitchen cabinets. Some plans included detail sheets of the fire place.

A color rendition of the house was also included and accomplished by use of an 'air brush.'

The paintings where incredibly lifelike, almost as precise and clear as an enlarged color photograph.

Different lighting effects in the sky accompanied by shrubs and trees surrounding the house were included in the color renditions.

Burks said the students would be able to find jobs upon graduation depending upon where they wanted to go to seek employment.

Woodrow Ladner said two of his sons had completed the course and had no trouble finding employment.

Burks thanked the school board for purchasing the equipment needed to make the program possible.

Waveland American Legion Unit honors fire fighters, policemen

A testimonial dinner honoring Waveland's Police and Fire Department personnel and volunteers was hosted by American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 77 Past Presidents' Parley recently at the Legion home in Waveland.

A plaque was presented to Policeman Claude Yarbrough Jr. for exemplary action performed in the line of duty.

The Fire Department received a plaque for untiring efforts in controlling woods and grass fires during March.

In conjunction with this tribute second grade students in Waveland schools were invited to participate in a police poster coloring contest.

A trophy was presented to each class participating.

Powers, Red; and Kevin Jacobi, White.

Mayor John Longo presented plaques to Police Chief Donald Dorn and Fire Chief Kenneth Fayard for their departments' outstanding performance and dedication.

Longo also presented a plaque to Auxiliary President Hedi Klein for community service rendered by the auxiliary unit.

Pere Cabibi, representing Waveland Senior Citizens, presented a pin to Policeman Barry Richardson for services rendered.

The dinner was arranged by Parley Chairman Lois Kothmann and members Hedi Klein, Dorothy Bielstein, and Marion Kennair with assistance from unit members.

Woodrow Ladner said two of his sons had completed the course and had no trouble finding employment.

Burks thanked the school board for purchasing the equipment needed to make the program possible.

Students in home economics classes taught by Janet Roche gave a presentation of this school year's accomplishments.

Other board members voted to employ Favre, with the exception of Louie Ladner, who was absent.

GEORGE GOFF

The commanding officer of the Naval Technical Training Center, Corry Station, Pensacola, Fla. has presented a letter of appreciation to Cryptologic Technician Third Class George L. Goff of the United States Navy.

Goff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Denson Goff Sr. of Shoreline Park. He is currently assigned to a cryptologic school at Fort Gordon, Ga.

The commander's commendation stated:

Your selections as "First Integrated Training Battalion Sailor of the Month" for the month of April singles you out as one of the most outstanding students at this command.

"Your selection is based on your mature attitude, dedication to duty, intense perseverance, and outstanding military performance."

"Your enthusiastic approach to assigned tasks, energetic application of good study habits and willingness to seek additional responsibility have contributed significantly to both your professional and military development."

"Additionally, you consistently display high standards of appearance and military behavior. Even though you have been in the Navy only a short time, your conduct, attitude, and performance are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Naval Service."

"Congratulations and best wishes for continued success."

AIRMAN SINGLETON

Air National Guard Airman Craig E. Singleton, brother of Maurice E. Singleton Jr. and Carol F. Wallace, both of 450 Easterbrook St., Bay St. Louis, has been assigned to Lowry Air Force Base, Colo. after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, Singleton studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the supply field.

MARIE LIZANA

Airman Marie H. Lizana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew B. Lizana of 451 Webster St., Bay St. Louis, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force disbursement accounting course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

Graduates of the course received intensive training in travel and military pay systems, and leave accounting procedures.

Lizana will now serve at Randolph Air Force Base, Texas.

AIRMAN LEGG

Robert J. Legg II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Legg of 803 E. Old Pass Road, Long Beach, has been specially identified for early promotion to senior airman in the U.S. Air Force.

The airman was awarded the new rating ahead of other Air Force members by a "below-the-zone" promotion board which considered job performance, military knowledge, bearing, and self-improvement efforts.

Legg is a security specialist at Ellsworth Air Force Base, S.D.

Make your vote count Tuesday

Tuesday will be an important day for the residents of Bay St. Louis. It will be the primary election day.

All Democratic Party candidates will be vying for slots in the general election on June 2. Only one person has qualified as a Republican and it is for mayor, while two qualified as independent candidates for councilman in Ward Three.

Persons voting on Tuesday will be able to vote for three offices, mayor, councilman-at-large and councilman in their respective wards.

It is very important for everyone to vote on Tuesday, and we hope a large turn-out of qualified electors will vote for the candidates of their choice.

It was very good to have seen so many interested citizens attend the forum last month sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce. We hope this enthusiasm will continue through Tuesday and the general election in June.

Over the years we have heard many criticisms of this or that office holder, and chances are that the person complaining does not even vote.

If you have any doubts, the next time you hear someone complaining, ask them if they took time to vote. You would be surprised at how many say no.

A record number of qualified electors have the opportunity of voting Tuesday, and we hope a record number will appear at the polls.

We can remember many elections being won, yes, we say won, by only one vote in Hancock County, so every vote does count.

Many elections could be won by a person receiving all the votes of the lazy people who do not vote, so it is important for all to vote.

We realize many folks may not have transportation to the polls and it would be good if neighbors of these people would offer to take them to vote.

Urge your neighbors, friends, call them on the telephone or visit them and try to remind all to vote Tuesday.

Salvation Army sets open house

National Salvation Army Week will be celebrated this year from May 11-17.

Major Robert B. Kitchen of the Army's Gulfport Corps in West Harrison County said the organization, known primarily for its seasonal work among the needy, operates on a year-round basis with a variety of programs for all age groups.

It is this continual service to others that is recognized during National Salvation Army Week.

To celebrate, the Gulfport Corps, 2009 24th Avenue, Gulfport will feature open house Thursday from 3 to 5 p.m. so that the public may meet the Salvation Army officers and tour the facility.

Governor salutes small businesses

Governor William Winter has proclaimed the week of May 10 through the 16 as Small Business Week 1981.

The proclamation coincides with salutes to small businesses throughout our nation.

The Governor urges all Mississippians to join him in praising some 33,000 small businesses in our state. He observed that the small business community accounts for more than 70 percent of our state's jobs, half of our business output and at least half of the innovations that keep America strong.

He said that the imagination, skills and desire of business persons to take risks symbolizes the free enterprise system and is the backbone of our economic society.

The Governor said that the 100 million employees of the nation's 10.8 million small businesses are vital to our continued growth and urges everyone to be aware of the contribution they make.

Treatment can help many alcoholics

Alcoholism is a very difficult disease to treat, but it can be done.

A certain percentage of alcoholics can be treated successfully, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association. Not all are hopeless cases.

Most alcoholics should be hospitalized in the early phases of treatment, to treat health problems arising from drinking and to interrupt drinking patterns. Some general hospitals offer treatment programs, other programs are in psychiatric hospitals, and comprehensive centers for alcoholics are available in most larger communities. Personnel, especially trained to deal with the physical and social problems, function as teams in the treatment centers. Rehabilitation is emphasized.

Treatment is directed toward helping alcoholics find a new way of life free of alcohol. It helps alcoholics understand and accept their problem, and gives encouragement for overcoming the sense of inadequacy that caused the disease initially.

Treatment of alcoholics, no matter how comprehensive, sive, frequently breaks down as soon as they leave the hospital or doctor's office.

On their own again, the alcoholics are face to face with the very real issues of where they will go, what they will do, and what they can expect from others. There is strong likelihood they will be unable to withstand much stress without resorting to alcohol again.

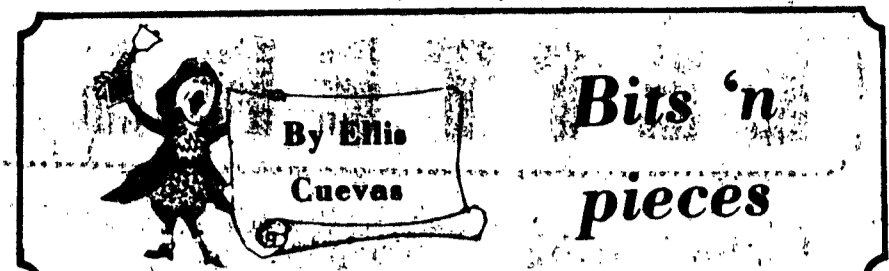

The physician realizes that his role is limited, and that truly remedial treatment requires the combined efforts of many persons in the total rehabilitation of the patient and the family.

Many agencies and organizations concerned with alcoholism belong to the Alcohol and Drug Problem Association of North America. The Association's office (1101 15th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036) will furnish complete information on resources available in any community in the country.

Most states have state-level alcoholism programs and many local government programs exist. Many communities have an Alcoholism Information Center to coordinate local resources.

One organization that is successfully aiding alcoholics is Alcoholics Anonymous. There are few communities of any size without a local chapter. AA helps its members achieve and maintain sobriety. It has been extremely valuable to many people.

We heard from a resident of Lower Bay Road about how someone dumped off a small dog full of mange, and starving.

The party said the little animal did not have any hair on it as it was completely covered. We cannot see how anyone would be so cruel to an animal.

You hear of incidents like this all the time and you just wonder what is becoming of this world.

There were big celebrations at NSTL Friday with the arrival of the two astronauts after their return from the recent historic flight aboard the space shuttle.

The astronauts' visit coincided with a public symposium at NAVOCEANO on the celebration of their birthday.

We are happy to hear everyone really enjoyed themselves at the celebrations.

Bay Fire Chief Andrew Lizana reports that the fire department received a special award from Camp Onward.

The award was given the local firefighters for teaching fire safety to several groups of visitors from New Orleans at the local camp on Beach Boulevard.

We congratulate the Bay Fire Department on their continued efforts in pushing fire safety.

Crime Commission director comments

on Jackson newspaper articles

May 8, 1981
Editor
The Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,

A recent series of news stories regarding crime in our area - "Mississippi Gulf Coast - Wide Open and Wicked" - related many facts garnered from old news reports and official investigations of organized crime and its infiltration here. The articles included facts and speculation and covered the past 30 years of such activities.

Your Mississippi Coast Crime Commission has been asked if the stories are true, and if we believe that printing the stories gave the Gulf Coast a "black-eye" in the eyes of the Public.

Responding to the first question, I must say that I do not know of any incorrect information being shown in the articles. Most of the information is from public records or earlier news stories; the articles by no means relate any past instances which could have been related.

Not knowing the sources of other statements in the articles, I could not vouch for their accuracy. Professional reporters and their editors must take necessary precautions to be sure that incorrect information is not printed.

Whether the articles give our Gulf Coast a "black-eye" depends on your point of view. If the reported matters are true, the "black-eye" is already here - the report merely uncovered it for all to see.

The reports are not a dis-service to the area, since it is through responsible reporting that citizens are alerted to dangers, and appropriate preventive action can be taken.

Most people will agree that the public gets what it wants - in law enforcement and in government.

Elected officials are responsive to the perceived attitude of citizens.

The voters of our area have an opportunity in the near future to make their attitude felt in the most effective way possible - through casting their ballot for the candidate who will follow the voter's mandate.

We at Mississippi Coast Crime Commission are optimistic that voters will make changes where necessary to achieve our goal of firm, prompt, and impartial enforcement of all laws.

Sincerely,
John E. Montgomery

The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis, Ms.

Dear Editor,

In November, 1980 I attended the beat supervisors monthly meeting in Bay St. Louis in regards to the paving of Blue Meadow Road from Hwy. 90 to the Jordan River.

One layer of black top had just been put down a week or two previously and I asked why had the road crew left without putting the top layer on?

Mr. Travica, our beat supervisor, said they had sent in the core samples to Jackson for an o.k. to finish and they would then come back and put on the top and final layer.

My question is how long does it take to get a sample back, or is it really every going to happen, or did we taxpayers pay for a job that we did not get?

Also at this same meeting, I asked about the bridge that was to be built on Good Street over the waterway and was told that it would be done in the winter when the tides were low.

The culvert that is presently in place at this location hasn't seen water since Hurricane Camille. The water does not circulate here and causes a real problem with polluted and stagnated water and makes it a paradise for snakes and a sore for the eyes.

Thank you for letting me speak out and for letting the taxpayers know.

Respectfully yours,

Mr. Ronnie Peterson
Sheriff, Hancock County
Bay St. Louis

Dear Ronnie,

This is to confirm our meeting along with Inspector Nollie McCordle on April 29, 1981 concerning the section of Mississippi 603 from U. S. 90 north of Kiln and the recent fatal accidents on this section of roadway.

My primary objective during our on-site investigation as well as my prior conversations with Nollie and one of the investigating patrolmen was to determine if the cause of the recent accidents could be directly related to a roadway deficiency.

As the result of our on-site investigation of the area and the conversations mentioned above I was not able to find any roadway deficiency that could be directly related to the fatal accidents.

Our on-site investigation did reveal that in some areas along the section in question some shoulder work should be accomplished to eliminate the drop offs along the edge of pavement. Our District Office in Hattiesburg advised me that this work will be done as soon as it can be scheduled.

Ronnie, we share the concern and interest expressed by you and others in Hancock County over the number of fatalities that have occurred on this section of Miss. 603.

We will continue to work with you and Nollie in whatever manner within our powers and capabilities to make this section as safe as possible.

Regardless of whatever we each do, unless the motorist assumes the appropriate responsibilities in obeying the various traffic laws and keeping their vehicles under control then we will continue to have accidents.

If we can be of assistance in the future, please do not hesitate to call upon us.

Dear Editor:

I am a little late with this letter but I guess it is better to be late than never. My letter concerns the Arts Festival that was held on April 18, 1981.

I, like Mrs. Ondrejka, was disappointed with the lack of publicity in our own Sea Coast Echo. The Echo did send a reporter-photographer to the exhibit Hall the day of the Festival, who took pictures and made notes but there has been no mention of it in the paper as of yet.

A lot of work went into the Festival and I am really sorry our citizens could not find a few minutes in their busy schedule to take advantage of what we had to offer.

Let me tell you what you missed: Ed Reaume, an acclaimed artist in Pointillism, showed prints which were each a masterpiece; Lou Ondrejka, well known on the Coast, showed works demonstrating she is an exceptionally talented artist.

We also had Ken Baldwin, a commercial artist, who is as talented in the fine art as he is in the applied art, and he also plays a guitar and sings.

There was also a breath-takingly beautiful display of Mole' from Panama, by Florence Duffie.

Mike Willumitis, a captain with the Bay Fire Department, also had a booth displaying his special talent in wildlife watercolors, a very fine collection.

Our Senior Citizens Arts Council had a booth displaying their works and it is amazing how beautifully they paint when some of them have been taking instructions from Mr. Carl Baldenhoffer for such a short time.

I think these beautiful people should be very proud of their talent.

The Crafty Lady booth had a variety of handcrafted items for every occasion, all a joy to give or receive.

Kat's Ceramics had many, many beautiful and unique pieces.

There was also a booth by the Waveland Players with past production posters, pictures from past performances, including pictures of their latest smash hit Deadwood Dick.

Last, but by no means least, was the entertainment furnished through the day.

Dances were performed by Piccola's Dance World.

Vocals by Dottie Overall, Jeanne-Marie Bell and Laurie Garside were presented.

Janet Aime and Dick Fitch did a number from the show Deadwood Dick.

Hansel Baxter delighted the audience with two solo dance numbers of her own creation.

Jean Keen, a lovely lady, who performs magic on the key board, played the accompaniment for those who sang.

Let me say that if we had one-tenth of the cooperation and enthusiasm of the news media and the people in our area as we do that of the members of the Arts Council, Mayors Bennett and Longo the outcome of the Spring Festival would have been very different I am sure.

However, although this has dampened our spirits just a little, let me assure everyone that our determination is just as strong as the day we organized.

I will promise you that the Arts Festival planned for next year will be larger and better and will grow each and every year from here on out.

There will also be events through the year sponsored by the Arts Council, so watch for the dates.

Before I close let me give a very special thank you to our friends Jim Odom and Jay Heitzmann for the advertisement of the Arts Festival on WXGR. We are eternally grateful for your support.

Can Bay St. Louis afford another lawsuit?

The city is faced with the possibility of yet another lawsuit. The following is a quotation that appeared in The Daily Herald, April 30, 1981, "A Hancock County woman has charged that she was denied consideration for the job of animal warden for the city of Bay St. Louis because of her sex."

Elected officials who manage to get Bay St. Louis into these situations must be held accountable for their actions. We, the citizens of Bay St. Louis should not have to suffer for the irrational decisions of these elected officials.

On May 12 we must decide to improve our city by electing responsible city officials.

Four more years?

It's up to the voters to decide. Should we have the same mayor for four more years, or should we change?

The choice is clear. Only one candidate has a definite program to improve streets, drainage, utilities, and other city operations.

It's time for a new attitude and direction in Bay St. Louis.

It's time for a change.

It's time for Vic Franckiewicz, a new mayor.

Vote on May 12...No. 85 on the ballot.

children participate and thus make it increasingly difficult for our limited staff to adequately help with these activities while keeping up with their other duties.

We need your help. We need volunteers who would be willing to help us for two hours on the days we have activities.

Even if you can help on only one activity day, we would greatly appreciate it.

On registration day we need two or three people to mix Kool-aid, fill up cups and hand them out to the children.

On a day that we have a movie, we need two adults for each showing. They will stand at the back doors, have the children line up, take up the free passes as they enter the door and see that only a few children enter at a time and are seated.

At the end of the movie a few are let out at a time so that no one is pushed or shoved on leaving.

On craft days, we need four or five volunteers so that one adult can help a small group of children work on their crafts.

We need help at the Waveland and Kiln Libraries where there is only one staff member on duty and only one headquarters staff member who is available to help on activity days.

If you can help, please call the Bay St. Louis Library at 467-5282, and tell us when you could volunteer. If you know of someone who might help please let them know we need them.

We feel that we have organized this year's program so that disruption to the library's regular services will be kept at a minimum, but we can't do it alone.

We need only two hours of your time this summer to help provide summer activities to the children of our community.

Thank you,

News from the Governor's Office

Gov. William Winter has proclaimed the month of May as Older Americans Month in Mississippi to honor the state's more than 350,000 senior citizens.

The observance, which is being coordinated through the Mississippi Council on Aging in the state, is traditionally celebrated throughout the nation during May to honor the elderly for their contributions as well as to bring attention to the plight of many older Americans.

"The elderly of this state still have a lot to offer, despite what the general attitude of some people indicates," said Winter. "All they need is a chance to prove it."

"I urge all Mississippians to join with me this May and throughout the year in promoting full integration of older people into the mainstream of our society," he said.

Older Americans Month will offer citizens special opportunities to emphasize the vital roles of older people in society; focus attention to senior centers, nutrition projects, and other aging network programs; promote further development of community services for older people; recognize the contributions of older persons; generate greater public awareness of the aging; and reach out to isolated people who need assistance.

For more information about Older Americans Month, persons may contact the Mississippi Council on Aging, 602 N. State Street, Suite 301, Jackson, MS 39201, 354-6500.

the launch pad and rolling maneuvers during the ascent.

A dramatic National Aeronautics and Space Administration film sequence showed separation of the solid fuel rockets and external fuel tank as viewed from the orbiter.

Another breathtaking film by Crippen showed the craft's re-entry through the Earth's upper atmosphere and desert landing in California.

Young reported the craft rocked back and forth slightly as expected on the launching pad when the orbiters engines reached maximum thrust and said lift-off occurred when the dry fuel propelled rockets ignited.

"What a ride it is," Young stated.

"It was a smooth glassy ride without very much noise. Even with 1.2 million pounds of thrust we didn't even realize it," the flight commander said.

Young reported there was a slight vibration when the craft reached Mach Four (four times the speed of sound), but when the orbiter's engines throttled back and shut down the cutoff was slow and soft—smooth as glass.

Crippen said, "There was a big bang when the orbiter's engines went off and some noise when the solid fuel rockets ignited."

"Sometimes the lift-off was shaky, but overall it was a smooth ride," he added. Young stated, "We were proud of how the engines performed."

"You all (at NSTL) eliminated all the problems with the engines and made them work. We've got a tremendous engine program," he said.

"Riding the three engines is a lot different from testing them. They make a lot less noise and we could even talk to each other during lift-off," Young reported.

Crippen noted, "After watching tests here I expected a lot more smoke and banging noise. The lift-off looked violent, but it wasn't that way on board."

Young said, "We've got a vehicle that can really ride."

The flight commander noted a bottom rear portion of the craft was apparently damaged during lift-off and NASA engineers are trying to determine the cause.

The astronauts also showed film of the cargo doors opening while in Earth orbit, a maneuver essential to cool the craft.

Young reported a 'de-orbit burn' for re-entry began over South Africa, followed by a series of rolling maneuvers and descent over Guam.

"Our re-entry into the atmosphere was at night time and the heat caused an orange then a pink neon glow around the craft. We then entered into daylight and the glow disappeared," he said.

"Approaching the landing site we did a roll reversal and landed," Young said.

The flight commander said he took control of the orbiter from the computer some 230 miles from the landing site.

"One fella said a 20 degree glide descent isn't much, but it's a little more exciting with this craft," Young stated. "The craft has great flying qualities and it's fun to fly," he said.

"Most people don't realize that you could put a railroad tank car inside the cargo area of the Shuttle," Young noted.

Regarding several heat protective tiles which were lost from the craft's tail pod during lift-off, Crippen said he wasn't concerned about the missing tiles.

"You don't really need the tiles on the tail pod," he stated.

Crippen explained if a heat resistant tile protecting a vital control was lost it might create problems during re-entry.

"There's always a nagging doubt about the heat tiles falling and the media tried to blow this out of proportion," he stated.

Young revealed the Shuttle has ejector seats, but these can only be used by the astronauts below 100,000 feet at a speed less than Mach Three.

Crippen reported the only problem they encountered was that their toilet would not operate.

"You all thought Young was just excited when he got out of the craft and was jumping all around," he said jokingly.

Regarding the many problems experienced during engine testing at NSTL, Crippen noted, "You can't put something as complicated as this together without something going wrong."

"The present test plan should be stuck to because this is a complex apparatus, but we could expand some of the operations," he said.

Crippen revealed the second shuttle flight may possibly be extended from four to seven days.

Young stated, "One of the things which is important about this program is it will help us in space in the 1980's and 1990's."

"The Shuttle is a remarkable vehicle and can do all kinds of things. We could have put twice the amount of payload on this flight," he said.

"The larger the payloads we put up the more performance will be needed from the engines. These engines will have to provide possibly 120 percent thrust," Young noted.

"You all will be working for the future progress of our country and improving America's defense. You will be doing something for your kids and the whole human race," Young stated.

Crippen noted, "This program is going to do a superb job for the nation and the world. It will prove itself."

"The only sad part about this program is I will have to get back in line for the next flight. This flight seemed to go by awful fast," he added.

BY DR. L.S. WALKER

DID YOU EVER HEAR THE STORY of the Happy Little Train?

Once upon a time there was a happy little train. He had such a good time as he raced down the tracks. He would blow his whistle at all his friends along the way - the horses in the fields, the ducks on the ponds, the birds in the air.

But then he noticed something: The horses could run any place they wanted to. The birds could fly anywhere they wished - or so it seemed. But he had to stay on his tracks.

Now he was very unhappy. "How can I get off my tracks?" he wondered. Then he thought of a way. At the curve where he always had to slow down he would speed up instead. So the next day he began to pick up speed several miles before reaching the curve and when he got there, he went right off the tracks!

"I'm free!" he shouted as he left those tracks that would only let him go on one path. He plowed through the soft earth!

"How different," he thought. But suddenly he came to a stop. He churned his wheels. He blew his whistle. He got up steam! But he didn't move an inch. "I'm not free!" he cried. "I'm stuck!"

A horse came trotting to see the little train. "You silly train," he said. "I can't go under water or in the air or roll down the train tracks. We are only free when we stay where we are suppose to be."

All boys and girls - and older folk too, for that matter, want to be free. They think they would be very happy if they were free from the rules of discipline of parents or from school work or other responsibilities - or even from the rules of authority, morals and decorum.

There are so many who think they would be happy if they could get away from God's laws.

So, everyone is, in a way, like the little train. They jump off the track that leads them to God and true happiness and assurance, and now they are stuck. Now they are not free.

The Bible says: "There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death" - Prov. 14:12.

Jesus said: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free... If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed" - John 8:32, 36.

You can't serve two masters and be free. You can't have it both ways - especially when these are opposites in character and purpose. You cannot walk with God, and run with the devil! Putting it another way, you can't have your cake and eat it too!

Freeedom is a responsibility. This is a rule which so many of this generation does not understand. Those who would be victorious in the game of life, must play by the rules as set forth in God's rule book. This involves rules of discipline. The wise will seek the will of God; learn the word of God; walk in the way of God; and be involved in the work of God.

Patrol

Six investigators of the Department of Public Safety of the Criminal Investigation Division have been promoted to the position of district investigator in their respective districts, to Donald Butler, District 1, Mississippi Highway Patrol; D. Huggins of Rensselaer in District 2 (New Albany); Magee of Columbia in District 3 (Hattiesburg); P. Naylor of Long District 4 (Gulfport); Herbert Nelson Jen in District 5 (Brookhaven).

Butler said the promotion was made after investigators from the district were tested under the promotion system.

Advancement to investigator was made by Ronald Brandon in District 1 (Jackson); A.D. Marks in District 2 (Batesville); D. Huggins of Rensselaer in District 3 (New Albany); Magee of Columbia in District 4 (Hattiesburg); P. Naylor of Long District 4 (Gulfport); Herbert Nelson Jen in District 5 (Brookhaven).

Butler said the promotion was made after investigators from the district were tested under the promotion system. He said before a promotion system is scheduled under the promotion system at least two officers apply for a promotion.

In District 5 (Brookhaven) none of the investigators served two years position of investigator eligible for testing.

Officers promoted to district investigator will be expected to investigate in the aspects of an investigation and be in charge assigned by the investigator of that district six promotions effective May 1.

Investigator Naylor said his Patrol career in relief radio operator in Batesville.

In 1952 he attended school and upon graduation was assigned as license examiner in Batesville.

The newly promoted was later transferred to Gulfport as a patrol officer.

Patrol promotes Naylor

Six investigators of the Department of Public Safety's Bureau of Criminal Investigation have been promoted to the position of district investigator of their respective districts, according to Donald Butler, chief of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol.

Butler said the promotions were made after 13 investigators from the districts were tested under guidelines of the Patrol's merit promotion system.

Advancement to district investigator was earned by Investigators Ronald Ready of Brandon in District One (Jackson); A.D. Gatewood of Marks in District Three (Batesville); David R. Huggins of Rlenzi in District Four (New Albany); Milton S. Magee of Columbia in District Seven (Hattiesburg); Tilden P. Naylor of Long Beach in District Eight (Gulfport); and Herbert Nelson Jensen Jr., of Woodville in District Nine (Brookhaven).

Butler said that investigators of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation serve in each of the Patrol's nine districts, but Districts 2 (Greenwood) and 6 (Meridian) only had one investigator each to request to be tested for promotion.

He said before a test can be scheduled under merit promotion system guidelines at least two officers must apply for a promotion.

In District 5 (Starkville) none of the investigators met the requirement of having served two years in the position of investigator to be eligible for testing.

Officers promoted to the District Investigator position will be expected to assist other investigators in the technical aspects of an investigation and be in charge when assigned by the Chief Investigator of that region. The six promotions became effective May 1.

Investigator Naylor began his Patrol career in 1948 as a relief radio operator stationed in Batesville.

In 1952 he attended Patrol school and upon graduation was assigned as a driver license examiner in Batesville.

The newly promoted Naylor was later transferred to Gulfport as a patrol officer and has continued to make his home in the Gulfport District since.

In 1960, Naylor was the first officer from Mississippi to attend narcotics training school in Washington. He later was assigned to the New Orleans Police Narcotics Division where he worked as an agent for three months.

In 1964, Naylor was promoted to investigator and assigned to the Gulfport District.

In 1965 he was sent to the FBI National Academy and in 1968, when the Patrol formed a Narcotics Unit under the Internal Affairs Division, Naylor was named Director of Narcotics and Assistant Director of Internal Affairs.

When the Bureau of Narcotics was formed and put under the State Board of Health, Naylor went back to the Criminal Division as an investigator.

In 1970, he was elected president of the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Association and president of the FBI National Academy Associates.

He was named Officer of the Year for the Mississippi Gulfport Coast in 1973.

He has frequently participated in Hancock County investigations and appeared as a witness in trials here.

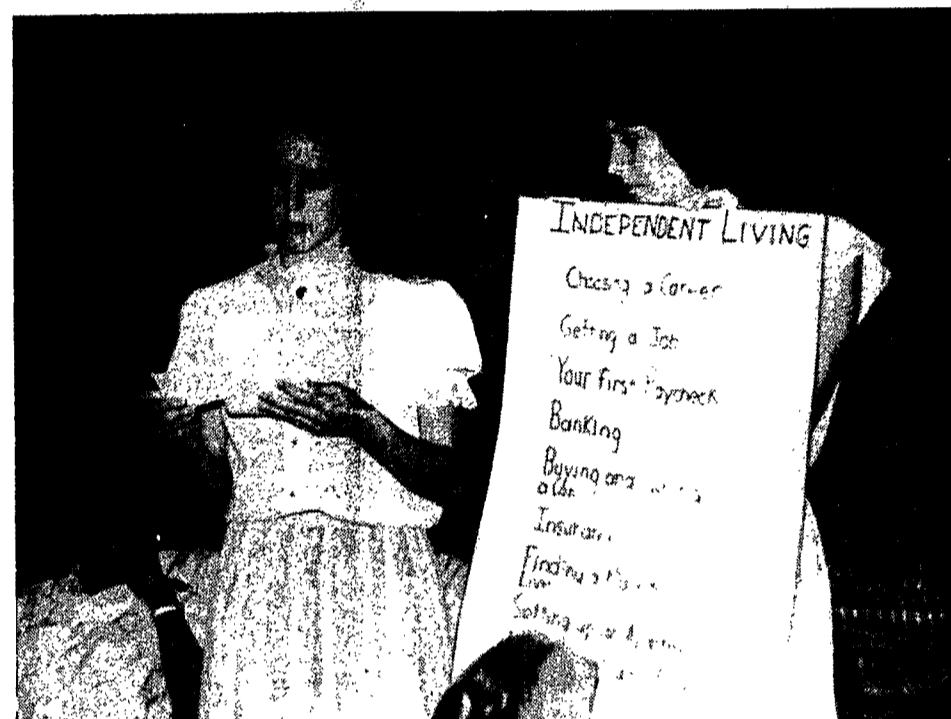

Naylor is 54 years old and has been married to the former Margaret Cowan of Atlanta for 26 years. She is supervisor of nursing at Gulfport Memorial Hospital. Investigator and Mrs. Naylor are the parents of two children, Richard, 20, and Denise, 24.

Bay to form girls softball league

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds will form a Girls Softball League if enough managers and teams are interested.

Don Corr, league supervisor, has scheduled a meeting of interested persons for Tuesday, May 12, 7:30 p.m. at the Wheel-Inn Restaurant, US-90, Bay St. Louis.

There must be at least four teams in order to form a summer league, according to Corr.

Ages are 13-18 and games will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays at McDonald Park.

Anyone seeking further information can contact Corr at 467-4293.

Wildlife magazine warns of chemical contamination threat to water supply

After many years of enjoying some of the world's safest drinking water—free from the cholera, typhoid, and other water-borne diseases that plagued their ancestors—

Americans are now facing a new and different threat to their water supply, according to National Wildlife magazine. The threat is chemical contamination—mostly from industrial wastes that seep into our waterways—and this menace to our drinking water may become the "environmental horror story of the 1980's," the National Wildlife Federation's bimonthly publication reports. At certain concentrations they can cause nausea, dizziness, tremors, and blindness. There is also evidence that some of the chemicals found in drinking water present a potential risk of cancer. Dr. Kenneth P. Cantor, an epidemiologist at the National Cancer Institute, told National Wildlife that several recent studies "heighten our suspicions about a drinking water link to cancer, especially to colon, bladder, and rectal cancers." Where, do these unwanted chemical contaminants in our drinking water originate? Eckhardt C. Beck, a former Environmental Protection Agency official, explained to National Wildlife: "Industrial discharges, agricultural and urban runoff and accidental spills combine to make many of our rivers and streams a lethal soup of organic chemicals." Recent surveys have found more than 700 organic chemicals in drinking water supplies, including 40 known or suspected cancer-causing compounds. The Mississippi and Ohio Rivers are among the most polluted waterways.

Chloroform—a suspected cancer producer—has been found in the drinking supplies of almost all surface water systems surveyed. It has also been found in 70 percent of chlorinated ground water systems.

National Wildlife also reports that there is mounting evidence that "contamination of ground water, once a pristine source of drinking water for 100 million Americans, and for 95 percent of the people in rural areas, is even worse in some areas than surface water." Two examples:

—Twenty-three public water supply wells in Nassau County and 13 in Suffolk County on Long Island were closed because they were contaminated with synthetic organic chemicals. Almost two million people are served by those contaminated water supplies. A recent study found all three of Long Island's major aquifers to be contaminated.

—In Michigan, the water in 288 wells is already contaminated and pollution is suspected at 381 other sites. Because this water does not flow like a river, a contaminated underground drinking supply is virtually impossible to clean up.

Many of the chemicals contaminating groundwater come from industrial discharges. A recent congressional subcommittee report revealed that each day 50 billion gallons of liquid industrial wastes are dumped in surface impoundments.

Fortunately EPA believes that only a small percentage of the nation's aquifers have been irretrievably impaired by contamination. However, as Beck told a congressional committee last year: "The story of hazardous wastes and vulnerable ground waters is just beginning to be written, but the opening chapter is enough to predict that this will become the environmental horror story of the 1980s."

What's needed to rid our drinking water of the dangerous chemical cocktails discovered in recent years? National Wildlife has these suggestions:

—First, we must keep toxic chemicals out of our rivers and streams. Under the Clean Water Act of 1972, toxic discharges into the nation's waters must be eliminated or

COUNTRY CLASSICS—Country musician Roy Clark is among many stars appearing on "Country Classics: The Best of Austin City Limits," to be broadcast during Mississippi ETV Network's "Down Home Good Time" celebration. The program, a repeat broadcast from March, will be shown at 8 p.m., Monday, May 11 on Mississippi ETV.

Library Association holds meeting

The Southeastern Region of the Mississippi Library Association held its 1981 annual meeting on April 24, 1981, in the University Commons on the campus of the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg.

Regional chair, Mary Bush presided over the gathering which was attended by over forty participants.

Those attending from this area were Prima Wusnick, Sherry Schwabacher, and Rosa Jackson of the Hancock County Library System; Mary Bush, NSTL-NASA Library; and Linda Schmidt, Pass Christian Library.

After a short business meeting, members of GODORT (Government Documents Roundtable) presented a slide program entitled "A Document for All Seasons - Or Reasons." The program described those government publications—both federal and state—which are felt to be the most essential to any library.

At the luncheon meeting, a talk on "The Future of Library Services in Mississippi" was given by Gerald Buchanan, assistant director for library operations at the Mississippi Library Commission.

Buchanan, having identified psychologist Erik Erikson's "eight ages of man," said that "Mississippi libraries have just entered the seventh age—that of adulthood. We can see where we have been and we can see the different paths that lie before us—with their pitfalls and their rewards."

Quoting liberally from Leonard Wibberley's One In Four, Buchanan made the point that libraries are entering the electronic age and that the consequent responsibilities to uphold the individual against the encroachments of society daily become more complex.

Officers for the coming year, elected at the meeting, are Dr. Joseph Mika, USM, chair; June Camp, West Biloxi Public Library, secretary; and Linda En-trican, Ocean Springs School, vice-chair and chair-elect.

street repairs

Bay St. Louis can have good streets if we start a regular drainage maintenance program and follow through with standard, proven street repair practices. Just throwing shells or asphalt in a pothole isn't good enough. It wastes time and money, and it doesn't work.

Last year we spent almost twice what we spent in 1977 to maintain streets and drainage. We should get more for our money. With a new mayor we can.

Mississippi weather report

Mississippi farmers can expect a warm, dry May, according to the National Weather Service outlook distributed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

April rainfall was light. Most farms received fewer than three inches of rain, say agrometeorologists in the Mid-South Farm Weather Service in Stoneville who prepare the forecasts. Much of the Delta received only one inch or less. Normal rainfall in May is usually between four and five inches, but less rain is expected this year.

Above normal temperatures this May will create faster soil drying and may mean minimum or no tillage for late-planted beans. Measurable rainfall usually occurs on about eight days in the month.

Weather experts say rice farmers are informed that pumping rates will need to be increased. Evaporation losses are usually about one-fourth of an inch each day, but might average nearly three-tenths of an inch this May.

Temperatures will be in the 80s in the afternoons and will fall into the upper 50s and 60s overnight. Ninety degree days may become more frequent by the end of May, say agrometeorologists. The probability of poultry heat stress by the end of May is normally 25 percent in the southern counties and 10 percent in the northeastern counties. This year it could be higher.

SUPERIOR RATING—The Pass Christian Middle School Band under the direction of Jim Hamilton and Theodore Williams received superior ratings in concert performance competition at the Gulf Coast Band Directors Association Concert Festival in Biloxi recently. The band, composed of sixth and seventh grade students also received an excellent rating from the sight reading judges at the competition. Band members in back row from left, are: Williams, Sam Rayborn, Eddie Caudill, Patrick Clark, Lenny Williams, Freddy Clark, Mike Williams, Bob

Not many people know that there is a place in Jackson where topographic maps of every acre in Mississippi can be bought.

That place is the map sales office of the Bureau of Geology, Department of Natural Resources, located on North West Street in Jackson.

The maps are sold to various business and professional people. Most of the maps are sold to geologists and others in the oil business.

But real estate developers, pipeline operators and others use the unique information provided by a topographic map.

Topographic maps are line and symbol representations of natural and man-made features, along with the picture of shapes and elevation of the terrain by contour lines.

An increasing number of map customers are those who use them for recreational or hobby purposes.

Norma Shows, who operates the map sales office at the Bureau of Geology, said more and more hunters and fishermen are using the maps.

"Last year, before the deer season opened, a hunter came into the office and said he would never again go into the woods without a compass and a topographic map," Shows said.

He explained that the year before he had become lost and spent nearly half a day trying to find his way.

"With a compass and a topographic map he probably would have found himself a lot sooner."

Hunters also make use of the contour lines on the maps to stalk deer, as the maps give information on ridges, creek beds and watering places.

In the past few years people interested in genealogical research have been buying the maps. These maps make finding old, abandoned cemeteries easier. Once found, headstones may provide information needed to complete a family tree.

The collection craze has had an influence on map sales too.

"Collectors buy maps to help determine the location of old homesteads.

They then go to the site with metal detectors hoping to find old coins. Others look for old bottles or other collectible items that may have been discarded in the area," Shows added.

As for the report on groundwater in Bolivar County, this is just one of several hundred surveys, studies and reports prepared by members of the Bureau of Geology over the years.

This particular publication was prepared soon after rice farming became a major factor in groundwater usage in Bolivar County.

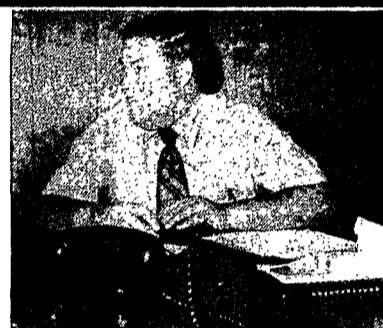

The oldest publication available for sale is one printed in 1907 dealing with cement materials of Mississippi.

Anyone interested in obtaining a list of publications and maps can request a list of available material from the Bureau of Geology, Post Office Box 5348, Jackson, Ms. 39216.

Dominican Sisters to dedicate house

Dominican Sisters Congregation of St. Mary in New Orleans Sunday is dedicating a new motherhouse at 500 Broadway in New Orleans.

A religious ceremony attended by the Sisters will begin at 10:30 a.m. with a Mass at which Most Reverend Phillip M. Hannan, archbishop of New Orleans, will officiate. Following the Mass, the archbishop will bless the house.

From 3 to 5 p.m. the motherhouse will be open for the friends, relatives, benefactors and alumnae of the Dominican Sisters to tour the newly renovated residence. Refreshments will be served in the courtyard.

Members of the congregation provide the administrative and teaching staff at St. Clare's Elementary School in Waveland.

Why are utility bills so high?

Utility bills shouldn't go up so fast. Fixing gas leaks can reduce the $75,000 to $100,000 worth of gas lost each year. Bay St. Louis has federal money for new gas lines in one part of town; but what about the rest of the city? We need to do some repair work on our own.

Materials and repair contractors cost the utility system $243,000 last year. Much of this can be saved by repairing sewer and water breaks as soon as they happen, and by avoiding "blank check" repair contracts that are wide open for abuse.

To save money we need better maintenance practices. We need a new mayor.

'The past is never really past, it remains forever a part of us'

"The past is never really past. It remains forever a part of us. The more we know about our past, the better we understand our present."

By present day standards there was not much to entertain people back in the good old days.

There were practically none of the many means of entertainment back then that we find so much of today.

Mr. Sam Russ, when 80 years old, said, "We had to make our own fun when I was a boy. It was not brought to us over radio, TV, talking machines or in newspapers."

However, people back then did not want for entertainment, play and relaxation.

There were few parties for young people during most of the year but at Christmas time there would be old-time square dances, candy pullings and parties.

For a dance there would be an old time fiddler, or maybe a French harp, to furnish the music.

These old-time fiddlers and harpists had their music in their souls.

I remember that about 75 to 80 years ago I used to go to these old time frolics.

They usually had an old man to play the fiddle. This old man loved his fiddle and delighted in playing it. I say fiddle for I had never even heard the word violin back then. A fiddle was still a fiddle.

Sam Walter Foss, a favorite old-time poet with me, wrote the following about an old-time fiddler:

"There's music, like the harpers played before the ancient kings,
When the old man takes the fiddle and goes feeling for the strings—
There's laughter choked with tear drops when the old man sings.
We let the broken man play upon the broken fiddle,
And we press around to hear him as he sits there in the middle."

Failing to get a fiddler, the dancers would dance to the music of a French harp, often played by one of the dancers.

While the music in the old days where I grew up was crude by present day standards, it was rendered with intense feeling and lively rhythm that went straight to the heart of all who heard it.

The music we had in the old days was not "canned music" or imitated music such as you hear so much of today—it was more charged with the emotions, and expressed more the feelings whether tender, gay or sad.

The music I like is that produced for the very love of it, like the old man on his fiddle—not sung or played according to some set pattern, or in imitation of some star performer, with little or no feeling or sentiment in it.

By my standards, which I admit may be very poor, most of the music I hear over the radio and TV does not measure up—it sounds more like it is being played, or sung, just in order to get paid off when the program is over with, and not because of love of the music.

Naturalness, individuality, originality and feeling mean much more, and are much more interesting to me, than the finished performance of some automation or mechanical-like imitator.

One morning at my window I heard from a mocking bird the kind of musical performance I am talking about. There was life, love, the thrill of being alive in every note, nothing commercial, a master performance.

When the music began at the old time frolic there would be much action on the floor.

The old-time square dance, with the caller gave plenty of opportunity for the dancers to shine and to show off their skill.

Always there was a young fellow or two who did their best to impress those present, especially the ladies.

After a time there'd be a lull in the dancing. Then, the candy pulling would begin, and what a big time they would have! They would get candy on their clothes on their faces, in their hair, and who would care? They had a big time.

Usually there would be couples present who had "got that way" about one another. They would pair off in the darkest corners of the room.

If not too cold they would sit out in the hall or even on the doorsteps. Others seemed to understand and happily left them alone.

There would be very little conversation between these couples. They would just sit there. But they got their messages across.

I don't know where the word 'chivaree' originated—I could not find it in the dictionary. When a person married in this general area there was usually a chivaree.

Sam Russ and other people have told me that from old times a chivaree was considered part of the wedding activities in the old days.

If you don't know what a chivaree is I'll try to tell you about the only one I ever attended.

A big crowd of people surround the house where the newly married couple were on their wedding night.

At a given signal, all heck broke loose: bells rang, guns and pistols were shot, cow horns tooted, fire crackers popped, everybody yelled and shouted and beat on pans and other things to make noise.

After some of this, a lamp was lit in the house and everybody was invited in to a feast that had been prepared in advance.

MAESTRO FIEDLER—The late Arthur Fiedler, for more than 50 years conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra, demonstrates his inimitable style in rebroadcasts of popular "Evening at Pops" programs at 7 p.m., Saturdays, beginning May 16 on the Mississippi ETV Network. Guest on the first program is Academy Award-winning composer Henry Mancini. Other guests in future programs are Lionel Hampton and Glen Campbell.

Waveland Players slate auditions

The Waveland Players will hold auditions for their upcoming variety show entitled "Cabaret - Variety '81" Thursday, May 14 at 7:30 p.m. and again on Sunday, May 17 at 7 p.m. at the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Avenue.

Director Janet Alme says, "come one, come all - we are looking for any and everything."

She is especially looking for someone to sing the song "Money" from the show and movie "Cabaret."

She encourages singers, dancers, musicians, and actors (for skits) to come to the auditions.

"Please bring your own material, if possible," she added.

"Cabaret - '81" will be directed by Alme, produced by Dick Fitch, and choreographed by Piccola Dietrich.

Play dates are set for the weekends of July 18, 19 and 20 and again on July 25, 26 and 27.
For information, call Alme at 467-9892.

Catholic agency serves Hancock

Catholic Social and Community Services is a multi-service agency, striving to meet the needs of all people living within the geographic boundaries of the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi which encompasses the 17 southern-most counties of Mississippi. The offices are located on the first floor of the Diocesan Chancery Building at 198 Reynoir Street, Biloxi.

Catholic Social Services began offering services to the people of Hancock County in 1963.

Then known as Catholic Charities, the office was a branch of Catholic Charities, Jackson. The first services offered were foster care, maternity care, services to the elderly, and marriage and family counseling.

Because of the sincere desire to serve the people of Hancock County they became a member of the United Way for Hancock County in 1968.

In 1972 the name was changed to Catholic Social Services.

Since 1963, Catholic Social Services has expanded its services to meet the growing needs of the community. Today, the agency offers the following services:

MATERNITY

Maternity services are offered to those who find they have an unplanned or unwanted pregnancy.

Catholic Social Services has the only comprehensive Maternity Program in South Mississippi which is especially designed for the pregnant teenager.

Together, the caseworker and the client identify the problems. They then work out a plan and steps are taken to reach that goal. Placement in a maternity home or a mutual assistance home is made when requested by the client.

When the client needs to leave home and a maternity home is not appropriate, she may be placed with a family (Mutual assistance home) whereby she becomes an integral part of that family until after the birth of her child.

Emotional support is given until the caseworker and the client decide the agency's services are no longer needed.

ADOPTION

The Adoption Program is the natural outgrowth of the Maternity Program.

The primary goal is to meet the needs of those infants placed for adoption by their ### birthparents.

Applicants are thoroughly screened to find those parents who are expected to provide loving homes; financial security; educational opportunity; physical needs; and religious education and example.

While the primary consideration is given to the needs of the infant, the agency, nonetheless, feels a strong responsibility to the prospective parents.

In an effort to educate them on adoption and prepare them for their future roles as parents, couples attend group meetings and interviews.

The aim of each meeting is to make the adoption experience a positive and happy one, alleviating doubts and anxiety as much as possible.

Catholic Social Services will assist couples who wish to adopt a "special needs" child from other agencies, as well as assist couples who wish to apply for intercountry adoptions. They have also begun working with single parents who wish to adopt an older child.

FOSTER HOMES

Pre Adoptive Care provides temporary foster homes for infants awaiting placement in their permanent homes. The families providing these homes are Christian, loving human beings who give much of themselves.

They keep a Baby Book on the infant so the biological or adoptive parents will have a record of the baby's first smile, when the baby first noticed objects, etc. They also write a letter to the parents when the baby is placed in its permanent home, telling of the baby's habits, likes, dislikes, etc.

Foster Care provides temporary homes for children needing care. A list of approved, available foster homes are maintained. The caseworker and the foster family work closely together in trying to meet the needs of the child.

COUNSELING

Counseling services are offered to adults. Marriage Counseling is provided to couples who are experiencing difficulties in their marital relationship.

Family Counseling is offered to families who are undergoing strain in the parent-child relationship. Individual Counseling is offered to individuals.

Divorce Adjustment

Therapy is a support group that meets for eight weeks and is for recently divorced persons.

The focus is on dealing with feelings and working through the trauma of divorce.

Information and referral services for children is available. The counseling services are offered by a licensed psychologist.

EMERGENCIES

Emergency Assistance treats the problems of the needy. Through this service, financial assistance, on a small scale, is offered to persons who find themselves in an emergency situation because of illness, temporary loss of a job, etc.

In 1979, a Family Life Program was developed to meet the growing needs of the family. Many programs are offered to promote family life, beginning with Marriage Preparation.

MARRIAGE

The purpose of Marriage Preparation is to present the essential human and Christian aspects of marriage, so that the couple will be full aware of the total dimension of the marriage covenant. Three programs are offered - Pre Cana; Engaged Encounter; and Evenings For The Engaged.

Marriage Enrichment encourages couples to attend Marriage Encounter which is a weekend program offering a technique of loving communication designed to make good marriages better. Anniversary Sunday promotes the celebration of marriage anniversaries in the Diocese and parish.

PARENTING

Parenting courses are offered in the form of two programs - Christian Parenting which is an in-depth program of 8 sessions designed to help improve parenting skills; and the Family Weekend Experience which is designed to draw the family closer together.

FAMILY PLANNING

Natural Family Planning classes are offered and workshops are held in different areas of the Diocese. Natural Family Planning refers to the practice of spacing pregnancies according to an informed awareness of a woman's fertility. It is also helpful in achieving a pregnancy.

SEPARATIONS

A Separated and Divorced Catholics Group was formed to create an awareness of the gifts and needs of the separated, and divorced Catholics and to give them a sense of belonging within the Church community. It is a support group which is open to people of all faiths. They meet monthly.

"A New Life" is a support group for Widowed persons. The purpose is to extend the invitation to a fuller interior life; provide new social outlets for friendship and companionship; and help in coping with grief, guilt, resentment and loneliness.

For more information regarding Family Life and the programs offered, you may contact Mrs. Beth Riley at 863-1666.

HUMAN RELATIONS

The Department of Human Relations was established in 1979 and is the only program of its kind in the area.

The aims are to instill Christian principles in people toward one another and to broaden the Church's community involvement in three areas:

1) in social justice issues, it acts as a mediator between local groups;

2) to involve residents in community issues; and
3) to serve as a liaison between residents with problems and agencies that can help them.

REFUGEES

Refugee Resettlement is offered to help refugees adapt to their new country and to a foreign culture. Interpreting services are offered by bilingual workers to the refugees and to the community.

"English As A Second Language" classes are offered in several locations along the Coast. Translations of laws and rules of the sea, road, etc. are made to better help them adjust more quickly to cultural differences.

Vocational counseling is offered to help the refugees find jobs so they can become productive citizens in their new country.

Catholic Social Services provides these services to all people regardless of religion, race, national origin, etc. Speakers are provided upon request. Anyone wishing further information on any of the services may call 374-8316.

Out-of-town guests included Ellen Angstadt of Hershey, Pa., Mrs. Warren Garcia of Lakeshore and Mrs. Sylvia Nelson and Ronya Nelson of Kilm.

MR. AND MRS. ROLAND R. BLACKWELL

TIMBERLINE

By Rand Riedrich
Hancock County Forester

We're indebted to Forest and People Magazine for the following article which helps point out the real economic value of our county forest land.

I hope this article will prompt readers to contact us for help in making their forest land more productive.

Cords and Board Feet
When foresters, loggers and mill workers talk about quantities of wood, they often speak in terms of "cords" and "board feet." These words are tools of the forestry trade, but they often spill over into magazine and newspaper articles on forestry, where they appear as unfamiliar units of measure for many people.

A cord is a unit of measure most often applied to pulpwood or roundwood, which is wood being used in the manufacture of pulp and paper. (A cord is also commonly used in measuring firewood volumes).

A standard cord generally implies a stock of wood 4 feet high, 4 feet wide, and 8 feet long.

An average railroad car might carry 30 cords of pulpwood, while an average tandem-axle tractor-trailer rig might carry 9 to 10 cords of wood.

But to give an idea of what this means in terms of finished paper products the following comparison might be made.

An average truckload of pulpwood, such as the one described above, contains enough pulpwood to manufacture tough kraft paper for 86,400 grocery bags (12-pound capacity). That's enough to take home 4 bags of groceries each day of each year for the next 59 years—all from one truck load, just 9 cords of wood.

And now for board feet. One board foot is the amount of timber equivalent to a piece 1 foot by 1 foot and 1 inch thick, and this term is usually applied to sawtimber, from which plywood, lumber and other wood products are manufactured.

An average truck load of short logs (14-, 16-, and 18-foot lengths) might scale in at 3,000 to 3,500 board feet, while a load of long logs (multiple lengths such as 26 and 35 feet) comes in at 4,000 to 4,500 board feet.

With this in mind, three to four truck loads of sawtimber would provide enough wood to frame the average single family dwelling. And when you realize that close to a million such dwellings are built in this country each year, that's a lot of timber.

So the importance to us of every truckload, every cord, every board foot of wood coming from Mississippi's forest becomes apparent.

And with this comes a greater appreciation for wood as a renewable and invaluable resource.

POLO SHIRTS

T-Shirts continue to be tops in fashion for spring '81. A special interest workshop for making the latest style of T-Shirts, the collared polo shirt with neckline placket, will be held Tuesday from 7-9 p.m. in the Agriculture Building Auditorium, 405 Necaise Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

Both the new commercial collars and self-fabric collars, in raglan sleeve style will be demonstrated.

This information can be used for making men's, women's and children's shirts. Register at the meeting.

SCISSORS AND SHEARS

Cutting is an important part of making a garment. A seamstress needs to have both shears and scissors for this task.

There is a difference in shears and scissors. Scissors have two ring handles, each just large enough for one finger. Shears have one ring handle for the thumb and one long handle for two or more fingers.

Cutting shears are called dressmaker's shears. Although there are several kinds, the seven-inch length is recommended for small hands and the eight-inch for larger hands.

Bent handles of shears let the blades slide parallel to the table as the fabric is cut. To be sure that both layers of the fabric are cut the same, do not lift the fabric from the table while it is being cut.

In addition to the pair of shears used to cut the garment, a smaller pair of scissors for trimming seams, slashing darts, clipping corners, cutting buttonholes and clipping threads is a must for the person who sews. This pair of scissors should have one sharp point and one blunt point.

Pinking shears are nice to have, but they are not necessary. Garments should not be cut with pinking shears. These shears should be used only for finishing seams. Pinking shears are also available in different sizes. The larger size is better for cutting heavy fabric.

COUNTED CROSS STITCH

This form of embroidery, long an art in Europe, is sweeping America. If you would like to learn, meet with us for a beginners lesson on Tuesday, May 19.

The class will meet from 10 to 11 a.m. It will be repeated from 1 to 2 p.m. and again that evening from 7 to 8 p.m.

Pre-register for the class that fits your schedule the best.

The lesson is free and all materials will be furnished to you at no charge.

Mrs. Betty Fields, an expert needlecraft, will give the lesson. We do ask that you pre-register so we will know how many kits to make up. Don't miss this great opportunity to learn a very rewarding needle art form.

WOMEN AS SURVIVORS

Many women are unexpectedly left to manage on their own, whether widowed by death or divorce. Most are ill-prepared for the task, and don't know where to turn. For an overview of some of the things every woman should be aware of, regardless of her current status in life, a special interest program on this topic will be held at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, May 20, in the meeting room of Gulf National Bank, Highway 90, Bay St. Louis.

Norine Barnes, area consumer management specialist, will conduct the training.

MONEY PROBLEMS

Do you have problems paying bills? You may want to seek help from your nearest Extension Area Consumer Management Specialist or from your local Extension Home Economist. She can help you establish a spending plan or realistic budget

TO THE CITIZENS OF BAY ST. LOUIS

During the past four years I have had the great pleasure of serving as your Mayor. I, along with my family, have been very proud to represent the City during this time.

Bay St. Louis, during my administration, has experienced a great deal of progress. We have received over two million dollars in 100 percent federally funded HUD grants. We installed much needed water facilities in the Highway 90 business area. We began the expansion of sewer and water facilities into the annexed area, and through excellent cooperation and assistance with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, paved a large number of streets in our City.

I have and will continue to operate the Mayor's office in the best interest of the citizens. I have, during my administration, attempted to personally assist our citizens with their problems and concerns whether it be high utility rates or personal needs. My office has and will remain open to every citizen and organization in this city.

During this campaign, I have attempted to visit each and every citizen in our City and will continue to do so until election day. However, because of my duty as the administrative officer of this City, I find my campaign time limited. If I should not be able to visit you, I would request that you will still consider me for re-election.

I want to again thank you on behalf of myself and my family for the past four years, and the fond memories you have given to us.

Sincerely,

Larry J. Bennett

MY FELLOW CITIZENS

Our City is deep into a continuing pattern of growth. The incoming administration will be confronted with awesome responsibilities. To meet this challenge, a spirit of harmony and cooperation must prevail between the two branches of city government. Constructive criticism will be helpful.

Unjust criticism, petty bickering or constant "nit-picking" will not be conducive to the best interest of our citizens. My pledge to you, my fellow citizens, is that I will constantly guard against the evolution of a HOSTILE adversary relationship between the Mayor and Council.

United Gas parent firm shows 33 percent quarterly increase

United Energy Resources, Inc., has reported a 33 percent increase in unaudited consolidated net income for the first quarter of 1981.

Net income was $55.4 million on revenues of $1.3 billion in 1981, compared with net income of $41.7 million on revenues of $1 billion for the first quarter of 1980.

Earnings per share for the first quarter of 1981 were $1.99 on 27.8 million shares outstanding compared with $1.62 per share on 25.8 million shares outstanding in the first quarter of 1980, a 23 percent increase after incorporating the full impact of the company's two million share stock offering in December, 1980.

United Energy Resources is the parent company of United Gas Pipe Line Company, interstate gas transmission firm which supplies natural gas to the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland; United Texas Transmission Company, intrastate gas transmission; Cotton Petroleum Corporation, oil and gas exploration, development and production; United Energy Services Company, contract drilling and well servicing; and PetroUnited, Inc., bulk liquids terminaling and marketing.

J. Hugh Roff Jr., United Energy's chairman, president and chief executive officer, said the operations of each principal subsidiary contributed to the improved first quarter results.

United Energy's consolidated net income for the 12 months ended March 31, 1981 was $179.2 million, or $6.78 per share, on operating revenues of $4.4 billion, compared with net income of $127 million, or $5.07 per share, on operating revenues of $3.5 billion for the 12 months ended March 31, 1980. Earnings per share and weighted average number of shares outstanding have been restated to reflect a distribution in the nature of a two-for-one stock split effective April 1, 1980.

Hodding Carter to host ETV series scrutinizing media

The Press — is it the staunch defender of American freedom, or an institution growing out of touch with the public it serves? An ethical profession or a brash commercial enterprise? The truth ... or a sideshow?

If you answered "All of the Above," you share the ambivalence many citizens feel about the power and the performance of today's news media.

Hodding Carter III is one such citizen. A veteran of 17 years as writer and editor of the Greenville Delta Democrat-Times, he was suddenly thrust onto the front page and the evening news during the first 239 days of the Iranian hostage crisis.

Now, he is host of public television's vigorous new INSIDE STORY, an eight-part weekly series premiering at 5:30 p.m., Sunday on the Mississippi Educational Television Network.

On INSIDE STORY, the press itself will be the subject of a nationwide journalistic effort, as correspondents and commentators report on how the news is covered.

The show will look at all sides of the newsgathering story — the positive, the negative, the triumphs, the mishaps and even the humor — from the network news desk to the busy pressroom of a hometown newspaper.

"The press today is a major institution," Carter said recently from his production offices in New York, "one of great relevance, effect, influence and latent power. Like any great institution, it is not interested in a close scrutiny of its own behavior. But it is certainly one which needs to be scrutinized."

Carter emphasizes that INSIDE STORY is not intended to be an "expose" of the press, which he calls "vital to the way this Republic functions."

Rather, he says, "We'll be covering the news as journalists, doing for and to journalism what journalism does for and to everything else."

The format of the show will vary from week to week, including one 10-15 minute "big story" plus a selection of other appropriate options — commentary, confrontations, or maybe a quick visual feature on the high and low points of the week's news output.

Each week, the show will be "capped" by a humorous feature from satirists Bob and Ray.

Carter says that INSIDE STORY is the brainchild of Ned Schnurman, a respected newsman who has served in both print and broadcast operations and as associate director of the National News Council, a voluntary press oversight organization.

Carter himself was an early advocate of the Council and has also studied under a prestigious Nieman Journalism fellowship at Harvard.

He'll draw from his experiences "on both sides of the fence" as host of INSIDE STORY.

HODDING CARTER HOSTS NEW SERIES—Hodding Carter III, former press spokesman for the State Department and former editor and publisher of the Greenville Delta Democrat-Times, hosts "Inside Story," a series of eight half-hour programs taking a critical look at press performance in the United States. "Inside Story" can be seen at 8:30 p.m., Sundays, beginning May 10, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Low Back and Hip Pain

Many times throughout the year, a patient with low back or leg pain comes to the office with a diagnosis of "strain" or "sprain" already made. Generally heat, braces, medications and traction have already been applied without giving any lasting relief. Our continued success in treating these cases stems mainly from our careful evaluation of any pelvic misalignments and of course, proper treatment (once the true problem is identified).

Falls and accidents can easily influence the pelvis and often if symptoms arise following an accident, proper examination and treatment may well avoid present and future problems.

$8,200 a day, every day.

It takes about $8,200 a day to run Bay St. Louis. Is this money wasted or spent wisely? That depends on how well the mayor runs this city. The mayor makes the routine decisions that determine how streets, drainage and utilities are maintained, how the police and fire departments operate and how the other city departments are run. In short, the mayor is the boss of the city's daily business.

To spend our local money wisely, we need good management in the mayor's office. We need a new mayor.

In days gone by the "Blackberry Women" used to go through the streets of New Orleans, and often along the Gulf Coast, too, their "tignons" or turbans on their heads, their luscious offerings nestled amongst green leaves—usually fig leaves—in their straw baskets—giving their traditional cry...

"Black-ack berries"—fresh ripe blackberries—and dewberries—oh, so good! I haven't seen or heard a "Blackberry Woman" in many a year, but I'm seeing—and devouring—these days the luscious berries that are ripening almost everywhere we look. Blackberries or dewberries, they're both delicious.

I like to eat the berries as I pick—which is why my older brothers used to make me whistle when we went berrying, for they knew that when the whistling stopped, "Sissy" was cheating again on the berries!

We also like the berries just fresh-washed and topped with sugar and cream...or in a pie or tart...and so on. But a special favorite way is just to pour the sweetened berries into a deep baking dish, then top with strips of pastry or biscuit dough in a lattice work design so that the berries peep through, then bake in a moderate oven...that's the old-time "cobbler".

Other cooks prefer to line the dish with pastry, then pour in the berries and cover with more pastry (either homemade or from a mix) and brush the crust with butter, sprinkle with sugar, and cut slashes across the top crust, then bake in a moderate oven till lightly brown. It's good hot or cold, topped with cream or whipped cream or topping.

And how about really "old fashioned" blackberry dumplings! Easy and so good, here's

BLACKBERRY DUMPLINGS

1 quart blackberries
1 cup sugar
1/4 cup water
1 cup sifted flour (all purpose)
Dash of salt
2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup milk
1 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
Bring blackberries, sugar and water to boiling in a heavy saucepan over medium heat. While that's getting to the point, sift the flour, baking powder, salt and an additional two tablespoons of sugar together in a bowl and cut the shortening in until the mixture "sort of" forms coarse crumbs. Add milk slowly, mixing in with tines of a fork so that you have a soft dough.

Drop the dough by tablespoons into the boiling fruit mixture, and simmer in open saucepan (without cover) for ten minutes or so.

Then cover and continue to simmer for several minutes more—till all looks ready, you can tell.

Makes 4 to 6 servings, depending on appetites. (Copyright, 1980, Katharine D.M. Caire)

Area Archaeology

By WAYNE DUCON
Positive responses to a recent survey indicate the Bay St. Louis area is rich in archaeological history.
A University of Illinois archaeological survey team working in this area in two years. The team of two or three professors will be led by Lewis, a former Waveland assistant anthropology professor. Urbana-Champaign based Lewis recently mailed a questionnaire to several hundred local residents. The survey is being funded by a seed grant from the National Science Foundation. Archaeological studies have
